A LUSTY YOUNGSTER

ALTHOUGH BUT A DAY OLD, THE NEWS CONTEST CREATES MUCH INTEREST

The Evening News contest child is indeed a precocious youngster. Yesterday, the first day of his existence, he certainly attracted a maximum amount of interest.

The value of the prizes strongly appealed to the readers of The News and the question, "How many have entered The News contest?" apparently was the leading question of the first day.

The opening announcement of this contest indeed aroused much enthusiasm, but the actual entries are few, therefore if you are one of the many who desire an auto, a piano, a trip to the exposition, a scholarship to the Isaacs-Woodbury Business college or a bank deposit, this contest should appeal directly to you. It should hit you square between the eyes and strike with a very weighty impact upon that part of your brain where you do your financial thinking.

The fact that the contest has just started, taken in connection with the fact that dozens who are attracted by the generous offer, will simply sit back and say, "I believe I'll enter the contest and win the auto later," and then never really start, should certainly appeal to you and cause you to start this very evening, the second day of the contest.

Anyone of the valuable prizes from the Maxwell touring car down to a $25.00 district prize, is yours to appropriate. No one will get any of these desirable treasures by taking it for granted that some one else will win.

They are before you, waiting to be won. Your chance is of the best, if you make up your mind to win, and to do that you will have to first enter the race, and the accepted time to enter is tonight. Fill out the nomination blank on page four now. That will give you 5000 free votes to start. Then see your friends, get them to subscribe for the Evening News at $4 a year, or the big eight-page weekly, the Tri-City Progress, which is brimful of local news, at $1 per year. As soon as you obtain one subscription go after another, for subscriptions mean the Maxwell auto, the $400 Schiller piano, a trip to the exposition or other prizes.

The prizes are all before you. If you put forth the proper efforts you can win your choice of the $850.00 Maxwell touring car, the $400.00 Schiller piano, the scholarships to the Isaacs-Woodbury Business college, the $50 deposit at the First National bank of Glendale, a trip to either of the expositions, or any one of the other prizes to be announced later. And remember, if you do not win one of the many prizes offered, you get a ten per cent commission on every new subscription you turn in during the contest.

LUNCHEON TICKETS

Members of the Tuesday Afternoon club are asked to recall the announcement that was made at the last meeting of the club to the effect that tickets for the annual luncheon on June 22 must be secured not later than today, June 15. Members may arrange for as many guests as they care to purchase tickets for. If you have not attended to this matter, call any one of the following ladies at once: Mrs. Frank Grosvenor, Mrs. A. L. Weaver, Mrs. William Herman West, Mrs. Blake Franklin, Mrs. A. L. Bryant, Mrs. Eudemiller, Mrs. O. W. Tarr, Mrs. H. H. Faries.

Those in charge of tickets are asked to report at once to Mrs. Daniel Campbell, who is taking charge in the absence of Mrs. Luther Brown, chairman of the courtesy committee.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY TONIGHT

The senior class of the Glendale Union high school will present their class play this evening at the Glendale Union high school auditorium. It will surely be well worth your while to attend and enjoy this play, which is a local dramatization.

The seats are priced twenty-five cents and tickets can be purchased at the door. The work is under the direction of Miss Abbie C. Terry. The high school orchestra will furnish the music.

DRINKING FOUNTAINS

It is indeed encouraging to the citizens of Glendale to learn that at Monday evening's meeting of the board of city trustees the manager of the public service department was instructed to install two sanitary drinking fountains, one at the corner of Brand and Broadway and the other at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway. This hot weather is just the time they are needed.

ATTORNEY'S OPINION

MAKES REPORT IN REPLY TO LETTER OF C. W. KINNAN TO TRUSTEES

Hon. Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, Glendale, Calif.

Gentlemen: With reference to the letter of Mr. C. W. Kinnan addressed to you some days ago concerning the laying of water pipes and laterals in streets before the same are permanently improved, which letter was referred to me by your board at its last meeting, I beg to advise you as follows:

This question is, by no means, a new one. The matter has come up heretofore on different occasions when the city has proceeded to improve different streets, and it requires no argument to convince anyone that to install all the utility pipes and connections in the street before the street is permanently improved would be a great preservation of the street for the reason that it would eliminate the necessity of cutting and refilling for the purpose of making such installations thereafter. The proposition at this time, however, presents a somewhat different situation to what it has presented heretofore, in so much as the city of Glendale has within the last few months taken over the water system and it is now a question as between the municipality and the property owners, whereas heretofore it has been a question between the private water companies and the property owners.

I have heretofore advised you on different occasions that a private corporation engaged in supplying the people of a city with a public service cannot require the consumers to contribute any part of the cost of the installation or construction of the distributing system through which such public service is furnished. This principle of law is well established in the case of Hatch vs. Consumers' Co., 17 Idaho, 204; Pocatello Water Co. vs. Standley, 7 Idaho, 518; Bothwell vs. Consumers' Co., 13 Idaho, 568; Montgomery vs. McDade, 60 So. (Ala.), 797; Pine Bluff vs. Toney, 96 Ark., 345; International Water Co. vs. El Paso, 51 Tex. Civ. App., 321; Cleveland vs. Malden Water Co., 69 Wash., 541; State vs. Hoquiam Water Co., 70 Wash., 682; Title Guarantee & Trust Co. vs. Railroad Commission and the City of Glendale, 168 Cal., 298.

The board will no doubt remember that the question under consideration is identical to that involved in the case last above referred to. Under the law as laid down in these decisions the board of trustees of a city of the sixth class, operating under the municipal corporation bill, would have no authority to create a lien on the private property of any individual to cover the cost of the installation of the pipe lines and appliances of any private utility company. This rule, for example, applies to the gas company, which is now operating in the city. Furthermore, you could not require such private company to install its pipes, connections and appliances until the public use to which they are dedicated demands the service. In other words, you could not enforce the installation of the pipe lines and service connections on a certain street simply because you contemplated improving that street permanently for the reason that the owner of the utility is required to make such extensions only as will enable it to supply the present public need, and you could not require such company to make investment which would possibly lie dormant indefinitely.

As heretofore stated, as between a municipally owned public utility and the consumer a different question presents itself. Section two of the Vrooman act, under which Glendale has heretofore improved its streets, was amended in 1913 and now provides as follows:

"Whenever the public interest and convenience may require, the city council is hereby authorized and empowered to order the whole or any portion of any street, avenue, lane, court, place, boulevard, highway, etc., improved, including the acquisition, construction, reconstruction, maintenance and repair of any public utility owned or proposed to be acquired by any municipal corporation, or the pipes, wires, conduits or other appliances and appurtenances for the operation thereof; provided that such an acquisition of any public utility already installed and any of the appliances or appurtenances thereof shall not be included in the same proceeding with any of the other improvements mentioned in this section.

The above section was evidently amended for the purpose of empowering the board of trustees or city council to construct, extend or repair any public utility owned by a munici-

VOTE FUNDS FOR SUMMER PLAYGROUNDS

CITY TRUSTEES ORDER REPORT ON DRINKING FOUNTAINS AND RESOLVE TO CO-OPERATE WITH LOCAL CIVIC BODIES IN CELEBRATION OF FOURTH OF JULY

There was a considerable attendance of the public at the weekly meeting of the board of trustees Monday evening. O. A. Lane, chairman, presided. Present: J. S. Thompson, George Williams, A. W. Tower and Charles Grist, trustees; T. W. Watson, city manager; J. C. Sherer, city clerk; G. B. Hoffman, city treasurer; W. E. Evans, city attorney; E. M. Lynch, city engineer; J. M. Banker, building inspector; H. B. Lynch, manager public service department. Chief of Police George H. Herald also attended.

An application was read from W. A. Burns for permit to improve part of the south side of Second street from Dayton court to Cedar street. The application was granted.

City Manager Watson tendered a written communication informing the council that senate bill No. 606, May 4, 1915, provided that the board of trustees should have the power to declare what constitutes a nuisance in connection with property in the city and should also have the power to provide for the removal of weeds, rubbish, etc., from lots and to make the cost of such removal a lien on the property and to enforce the same by sale. This bill goes in force on August 4. Meantime, the city is operating under ordinance No. 244 and will continue to do so until a new ordinance has been prepared by the city attorney in consonance with the new senate bill No. 606.

Dr. Archer tendered a bill for medical attendance on Frank Fellows, recently injured while in the employment of the city. The bill, amounting to $54.65, was referred to the finance committee for approval.

A petition was received from Mrs. Sidney Dell asking that the proposed improvements on Lincoln place be so adjusted as to make the burden of the first payment of the principal fall on Jan. 1, 1917.

Two petitions were received from residents on Ivy street with reference to the proposed curb improvements there. One of these petitions in favor of the improvements represented 1650 feet. The other, against, represented 1000 feet. It was moved and carried that "all protests against the improvement both as to character and extent be denied."

The Rev. E. H. Willisford, representing a committee of the Parent-Teacher federation, asked permission to address the council. He said that the committee for which he spoke had been appointed to consider the question of providing vocational playgrounds for the children of Glendale, and that they had come to the conclusion that such playgrounds would be a benefit if they were under proper supervision. The committee which had been considering this question consisted of Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. Ella Richardson, Mr. R. D. White and the Rev. E. H. Willisford. This committee has power to take such action as might be necessary to secure summer playgrounds and proper supervision for them.

The committee planned to utilize the present school grounds, where suitable. Already at the Pacific avenue school the people of the vicinity are putting the grounds in order for playgrounds. Money is being raised and it is hoped that throughout the summer the children may be able to enjoy baseball, tennis and basketball.

Mr. Willisford also said that the committee hoped to be able to secure the high school grounds for similar use. Those grounds are in splendid shape. It was understood also that the people living in the neighborhood of Central avenue would help to fit up the grounds there. The committee would be glad to have other grounds. However, no matter how well prepared they might be with grounds, the whole plan would come to nought without proper supervision. That had been the experience of the big cities everywhere and it might be noted that all modern cities now make provision for such playgrounds.

The committee, the speaker said, hoped to secure the services of one competent man and one competent woman. They also hoped to get other service free. Already they had the promise of the services of one young man, free, and several women had also offered their services in return for the experience they would obtain. The need was money. They asked the council to vote $75 a month for two months, to be paid August 1 and September 1, to maintain this work.

Mrs. Charles H. Toll spoke strongly in favor of the application, saying that the boys and girls of the city should have some means of employing their spare time during the vacation months, otherwise they might get into mischief. Every child, she said, was a civic responsibility, and the city had a duty to perform toward all. It was a good thing to interest them in things that could do them good.

Mrs. Hutchinson said that she had been interested in this matter ever since she came to Glendale. Glendale had grown so rapidly that its needs had outgrown the provision made for them. The city ought to do something for its young people. Children should have playgrounds for the summer with proper supervision. The committee asked the assistance of the council and would themselves also provide what was necessary to make up the required sum.

Principal R. D. White of the Intermediate school said that the state spends large sums annually for the maintenance of the schools, but when summer comes the schools are shut up. There was nothing in the city, he said, to take the place of the old system when the boys and girls, during vacation, were set to the work of the farms. The population was now urban. In the larger cities a fund for playground expense was set apart. The provision of playgrounds was a necessity. Vacation playgrounds are provided in Los Angeles and the city provides the money. By consenting to this request the council would perform a civic duty and confer a great benefit on Glendale.

Mr. Willisford said that the opinions of the committee were heartily indorsed by Mrs. Ella Richardson, who was unable to be present. He assured the trustees that the work of opening up the playgrounds would be done under proper supervision and would bring good results. It would lead us to better things, to higher things. His own experience both as a teacher and a social worker, had taught him that the playgrounds should be under proper supervision. It was cheaper than having to provide extra police.

The chairman said that personally he was in favor of public playgrounds and that his heart had been set on seeing Glendale provided with summer playgrounds for a long time. The matter would be taken care of and the committee of the Parent-Teacher federation notified at once. The matter was referred to the finance committee, which afterward recommended that the necessary amount be apportioned from the advertising and promotion fund for supervision of playgrounds within the city limits. It was arranged to pay to the committee for this purpose $75 on August 1 and $75 on September 1.

M. P. Harrison stated that the Chamber of Commerce had voted at a recent meeting for the building of a bandstand for the purpose of keeping the band together and giving the city proper entertainment this summer. They had a location for the stand and it would be but a small expense. He asked if the trustees would help them and to what extent.

Mr. T. W. Preston of the Chamber of Commerce stated that he believed the expense would altogether amount to only $200.

Mr. McGillis said that the matter originated with the Chamber of Commerce when the matter of comfort stations was taken up and now that the two subjects had been separated he believed that the bandstand matter should be and would be dropped. He did not think the Chamber of Commerce would be disappointed were the matter turned down by the trustees.

The discussion then was dropped.

A communication was then read from the Chamber of Commerce calling attention to the unsanitary condition and inadequacy of the toilets at the Pacific Electric depot and asking that steps be taken to remedy the matter, otherwise an appeal to the railroad commission for relief would be made.

City Attorney Evans said that while the present condition of the toilets at the depot might not be such as the law would warrant, still he did not think that they should be expected to do it alone.

City Manager Watson said that he had made investigation of this matter and he believed that the best way would be for the city to take the matter up and join in the building of a rest station which would take care of the city's and also of the railway's obligations. Another station, he said, should be built at the city hall. The whole matter could be done for $1000 and it could be completed this fall.

The city attorney was instructed to take the matter up and report on it in a week's time.

TROPICO MAID WED

MISS JULIA BYLOFF BRIDE OF CHAS. STEWART—OTHER TROPICO NOTES

The First Lutheran church of Los Angeles was the scene of a most brilliant society wedding Monday evening at 8 o'clock when midst flowers and bloom Miss Julia Arvilla Byloff of Tropico and Mr. Charles Stewart of Los Angeles were united in marriage, the pastor, Rev. Weaver, officiating. The auditorium of the church was converted into a bower of fragrant bloom, greenery, pink roses and Shasta daisies lending a charm to the brilliant scene. The bridal pair stood beneath a floral bell and there plighted their troth.

Miss Fletcher presided at the organ and preceding the ceremony Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper sang very sweetly "Perfect Love." To the strains of Lohengrin, rendered by Miss Fletcher, the bridal party slowly advanced to the chancel rail, where Rev. Weaver awaited their approach. The two center aisles were used for the bridal party. Down the left center came dainty little blue-eyed Angela Boyce, niece of the bride, in a sheer pink frock, while down the opposite aisle came manly Nicholas Jamgoochian, in white knickerbockers, each carrying rose petals, which were strewn in the pathway of those who followed. Miss Pearl Herndon of Hollywood, in a beautiful gown of pink and carrying pink rosebuds, as maid of honor, followed the little flower girl. Dr. Lucas B. Smith of Long Beach, as best man, followed Nicholas Jamgoochian. Miss Lydia Fayro of Tropico and Miss Helen Herman of Los Angeles, each in dainty pink gowns and carrying pink rosebuds, added to the pretty scene, as did Mr. Sterling Willis and Mr. George Wieland, both of Los Angeles, who attended the pretty bridemaids.

Miss Byloff, the bride, who is a handsome blonde, was most radiant in her beautiful white satin bridal robe, with garnitures of rare lace, carrying a shower bouquet of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley. The bride approached the altar as the happy groom proceeded from the opposite aisle. It was truly a beautiful scene and the lines read by Rev. Weaver very impressive. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ellsworth Boyce at 506 South Brand boulevard, Tropico.

Over fifty relatives and friends attended this brilliant function and partook of the wedding supper. The happy bride and groom were seated at a table which was adorned in white lilies and ferns, with their bridal party. Other tables were centered with pink carnations and pink roses, where the remainder of the guests were seated.

Dr. Elwood Nash, president of Lombard college, Galesburg, Ills., where the bride had matriculated, while a resident of that state, gave a toast, "To the Bride." Dr. Nash is a brilliant orator and his toast was a beautiful tribute to the bride, whom Dr. Nash has known since she was a little girl in pinafores.

Miss Johanna Lind of Glasgow, Mont., but who formerly was instructor in the schools of Galesburg, told in a most beautiful manner "How We Found Her." Miss Lind first met her when the beautiful bride was a dear, dainty little girl in Miss Lind's Sabbath school class, and she learned that she could recite. Miss Lind then recited the first recitation Julia Arvilla Byloff ever gave in public. The next who found this sweet girl, as Miss Lind gave her toast, was Prof. Rudolph Lombard of Lombard college, who learned that Miss Byloff had a most beautiful voice and developed the quality and purity of her sweet soprano.

Lastly, Miss Lind related that the third person to find this charming girl was Mr. Charles Stewart, the happy groom, who as choirmaster of the First Lutheran church, of which Miss Byloff was leading soprano, first met her. He met, he appreciated her rare qualities of voice, character and her beautiful personality, and then he loved, and then—ah, well, then the climax was when Dr. Weaver pronounced Mr. Stewart and Miss Byloff man and wife. Their golden dream has begun and many are the good wishes that are extended this happy couple.

Following the reception, while the guests were admiring the many beautiful and rare wedding presents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart slipped quietly away to that blissful land unknown to only the happy bride and groom, but when they return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will reside in Los Angeles, where Mr. Stewart is prominently connected with the First National bank.

Miss Olds of Los Angeles and Miss Cooper of Glendale added several vocal numbers during the evening.

The hospitality committee of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club, of which Mrs. J. Herbert Smith is chairman, entertains with a luncheon in the G. A. R. hall Thursday. This social function and the program that follows the luncheon marks the close of this year's club work and its activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Peterson arrived from Denver, Colo., on Sunday for the marriage ceremony of their sister, Miss Julia Byloff, and Mr. Charles Stewart. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson will be the guests of Mrs. Peterson's sister and brother-in-law, City Trustee and Mrs. Allen E. Boyce.

Miss Johanna Lind of Glasgow, Mont., formerly of Galesburg, Ills., is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Allen E. Boyce of South Brand boulevard.

MEN COOK AND SERVE

WOMEN OF CHRISTIAN CHURCH ARE GUESTS OF MEN AT BANQUET

The women of Central Christian church are celebrated for their good suppers, but the men will soon have a reputation equally as great, if the banquet they served to the women of the women's class Monday night is repeated once or twice.

It was a delightful affair, attended by about a hundred of the members of the men's and women's classes. The men felt under obligations to reciprocate the many favors which have been shown them by the women and what they did Monday evening certainly went far in that direction. The banquet itself was supervised by J. C. Herron and his able assistants, including J. F. McClish, F. W. Pigg, Dr. Daugherty and others, and the pastor was very ably assisting in every part of the work. Frank Hester, Morris Jackson and others of "the boys" did the serving, and did it so well that it was frequently remarked that no banquet had ever been served so quickly and with so little delay at any stage.

The tables were beautifully decorated with a great abundance of flowers and boutonnieres were furnished all the men.

Mr. O. L. Kilborn as president of the class, presided, and first called on Mr. Francis, as teacher of the men, who responded in a very brief address, and was followed by Mrs. Durfee, president of the women's class, who took the place of her husband with her usual ability. Dr. Durfee has been quite ill for a week or two and was unable to be present.

Mr. F. C. Herron responded to the toast, "Our Guests," with a splendid eulogy on woman, and showed that in him we have latent ability that had never been dreamed of.

Mrs. Daugherty, in response, recited an original poem apropos to the occasion, which was greatly enjoyed. An address of appreciation and good cheer was then given by Dr. Dungan in his own unique, humorous and always enjoyable manner, and after adjournment to the auditorium of the church an address by Rev. Mr. Dean and music by Mrs. Orth and Mrs. Pigg were all enjoyed, and after a season of social good fellowship, during which some new faces were welcomed, adjournment was had at 10 o'clock promptly and the affair was pronounced by everyone who had the pleasure of attending it one of the very best affairs of this character they had ever been privileged to attend.

SOME EXCEPTIONAL STUDIES

Maud Allan of London, the famous classic dancer, is visiting her parents in Los Angeles. Hearing of the photographic work of Edward Henry Weston through his London Salon exhibit, Miss Allan recently called at the "little studio" in Tropico. Mr. Weston made what he now considers some of his best studies. Miss Allan will use these as her lobby display in London and on her American tour in the fall. Mr. Weston also intends to send them as part of his 1915 London Salon exhibit.

FOOTHILL CLUB

Mrs. Menzo Williams, assisted by Miss Ellen Williams, will entertain the Foothill club at her home, 1325 North Central avenue, Friday, June 18, which is the third Friday of the month.

J. O. C. CLASS TO MEET

The regular business meeting of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist church will be held this evening at the home of Miss Laura Maxwell, 138 Cedar street.

PRESERVATION OF HEALTH

Health is a possession that few value until they are in danger of losing it. Like all natural conditions, it never makes its value known until its absence is likely to occur. Healthy people are not conscious of having a heart or lungs or any other internal organ. The functions of those organs go on unnoticed and it is not till sickness in some shape or form attacks us that we become aware that we have heart, lungs, stomach or liver.

Most people are born into the world with that greatest of all possessions—health. The average infant usually has nothing wrong with any of its organs and if so large a proportion of children die while under five years of age, it is simply because their parents or others in charge of them do not take proper care of them. Mostly all disease is preventable disease. In the old days when the plague used to sweep through Europe like fire through a vacant lot in torrid heat, the people generally sat down in dumb despair and attributed the abnormal conditions under which they were suffering to "the will of God."

As a matter of fact, those who appeared to violate all the medical precautions against the plague were most frequently those who escaped from it. This was not because of their precaution or their lack of precaution, but as modern medical science has discovered, they were immune. Most people could be immune to disease were they only to preserve that excellent health with which they have been endowed at the outset of life. Parents could lay up for their children a most valuable stock of health were they to discourage the eating of questionable sweets; the drinking of questionable drinks—not alcoholic drinks, that goes without saying—but those mysterious mixtures which are sold in warm weather at the beaches and at the street corners of most large cities.

That tempting lemonade! Pink as the rosy-fingered dawn! Surely nectar, the drink of the Gods, was never so cool, so cooling, so grateful to the palate! See that golden fruit swimming about in the ice-cold element, just with the sufficient soupcon of sweetness that would create a thirst beneath the ribs of death! Surely here is health and refreshment!

Ask the man who has been on the inside and he will tell you that the "drink of the gods" is compounded of a deleterious acid and some questionable ice and that the "golden fruit" consists of few cut lemons that do duty all day in the "ice-cold" element and are seldom renewed even when the second day comes round.

Children drinking such a mixture as that must have stomachs like ostriches or they would never survive the feat. In truth, they frequently do not survive it. The mortality of children under five years of age is so great that it might well make parents and guardians pause and ask themselves what is the matter. Max Adeler's cub editor, who ran an obituary column one day in a country newspaper and nearly procured the manslaughter of the real editor, was not so far out in one of his effusions that ran

"Willie had a purple monkey climbing on a yellow stick;
And when he sucked the paint all off it made him deathly sick."

Ill health, except where inherited or caused by accident, is usually the result of carelessness, inattention or indifference to common-sense methods of preserving health. Temperance in eating is as essential to human welfare as temperance in drinking. When we have banished both intemperances we ought to have a clean, pure, healthy world.

UNSCRUPULOUS SOUVENIR HUNTERS

If one were to take Rubens' "Descent from the Cross" from the cathedral at Antwerp, that would be theft; but if one were to take a piece of silver belonging to President Wilson from the White House, he might save himself from punishment, according to modern American ethics, on the plea that it was only a "souvenir." This mania for souvenir-getting has developed to great lengths in these latter days. Not long ago there was a great banquet in New York City. The purveyor was a novice; he bade for the banquet, underbidding his opponents, and got the contract and with it experience that put him out of business altogether, as his guests stole all the real silver on the table for "souvenirs."

One would think, however, that the sacrilegious hands of the most indifferent would be kept off anything belonging to George Washington. If there be any respect or any devotion due to a single name in the roll of fame of this country, it surely might be expected to cling round the memory of George Washington—the father of his country.

By no means; children you know are privileged to steal from their father and generally do so with impunity. So here we have the pachydermatous patriot stealing a silver pew plate bearing the autograph of George Washington from Christ church, Alexandria, Va., of which the first president was a member during his residence at Mount Vernon.

Naively the dispatch adds that "it is suspected a tourist was guilty of the act." There is something so superfluously ingenuous about that statement that one might readily suspect that it was a native who was guilty of the act and that he or she was anxious to shift the blame as soon as possible to the shoulders of the vague and shadowy "tourist." "Methinks the lady doth protest too much."

Apart, however, from any attempt to extract humor from the situation, there can be no limit to the indignation of real Americans over such desecration of what ought to have been respected as a national shrine. If Washington's name and memory are not sufficient to warn off the traveling vandal, then sterner measures than any taken as yet should be enforced to prevent the recurrence of such thefts. The worst of such a theft as this is that it creates a desire on the part of some other insane "collector" to emulate the feat of the first degenerate.

It comes also as news on the head of the first story that the plate was only a facsimile copy of the original used by Washington, which was stolen shortly after the Civil war. When the second-edition thief discovered how he had been defrauded by some more ancient robber than himself, he probably waxed indignant and resolved to go him one better, for shortly afterward it was discovered that a leaf had been taken out of the old Bible on the Masonic altar of the lodge of which Washington was a member.

The fine distinction between kleptomania and theft was not inaptly described by a humorist, who said: "If you're a rich man, it's kleptomania; if you're poor, it's theft." In like manner, it might be said: "If you're a rich man, it's souvenir hunting; if you're poor, it's robbery and you must go to jail."

SECRET OF RUSSIAN REVERSES

As was pointed out in these columns a few days ago, the Russian army has been suffering from a serious handicap in the way of lack of ammunition. This has given Germany opportunity of which she has not been lax to avail herself. The Russians, brave as lions, have been battered back from Przemysl, and that fortress has again fallen into the hands of the Germanic allies; but in attempting to drive the czar's troops entirely out of Galicia the kaiser's men have suddenly come up against an obstacle. The worm has turned.

Russia has justified the prophesy made in these columns by resuming her old form and turning on her foe with all the determination and savagery characteristic of the Russian bear. Germany has had one great advantage over the allies in the fact that her ammunition factories have been working since the beginning of the war not only with a doubled force of skilled workmen, but also working double time. With the start she had ahead of her foes, who were not anticipating war, she did well up to a certain point, but the moment the lack of men on the allies' side was supplied, she went backward.

Now comes another point wherein she must be excelled by the allies or else they may expect defeat. They must have ample supplies of ammunition. Up to a certain time they had enough; now their supplies are barely sufficient for defense and far short of what would suffice for aggressive attack.

That Russia did not have even ammunition enough for defense the eagle eye of the German was not long in discovering and by means of his strategic frontier railways he poured such an enormous aggregate of troops and artillery on the unfortunate Russ that he overwhelmed him and drove him in confusion across the San.

Now the tide has turned. Japan, which had been supplying ammunition to the Russians, had discontinued her supplies because she feared war with China. This put the Russians at a great disadvantage.

Now that war with China is no longer to be feared, the Japs are pouring ammunition into Russia as before and the result has been that the difference between the two armies is immediately seen not to have been one of physical strength, morale, nor even of tactical and strategical knowledge; but one of who could obtain the greatest supply of ammunition. Granted that Russia can have this supply kept up indefinitely, she should still be able to give a good account of herself on the fields of Galicia.

SETTLING DISPUTES

Only a few years ago it was a quite common practice among business men and others to commence the settlement of disputes by a crack from a fist upon the nose of one or the other of the disputants. If two men got together over a difference of opinion, there was pretty sure to be a fight with fists, and sometimes with deadlier weapons. Any person of age sufficient to look back forty or fifty years knows that fist fighting was very common in most localities in this country at that time. In fact, it was generally regarded as the correct thing for a blow to instantly follow an epithet. Men of strong build and belligerent spirit soon got a reputation for being handy and capable in that way, and where there were several of such in a community collisions between two or more of them were of frequent occurrence. It is said that these practices are still very much in vogue in the back country, in mining and lumber camps and in frontier towns, although the frontier town has nearly disappeared in this country.

How is it now in communities of advanced civilization? There is almost no fist fighting and very few of the neighborhood disturbances that used to be so frequent. Why? The answer is that public sentiment is against the old system, and public sentiment has been crystalized into law and law enforcement. The public won't stand for the fighting man now, but he used to be looked upon as a kind of hero. Society will not stand for personal brutality any more. Certain kinds of wholesale brutality, such as war between nations, is still recognized as correct practice by certain persons who are unfortunately in authority. Torture of criminals, usually made such by our inefficient social processes, is also condoned by society, very largely, but personal fighting, fighting between citizens on trivial pretexts is not recognized as the proper thing for respectable men to do now, and consequently the practice has been abolished. There is no more of it. The thing was killed by public sentiment, and wars between nations can be killed the same way. There is no more necessity for national fighting than there is for personal fighting.—Monrovia News.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

An audience which completely filled the main auditorium and the side rooms attended the Children's Day service Sunday morning at the Congregational church. The church was elaborately decorated with ferns, plants and flowers, yellow and white predominating.

The primary department under the efficient direction of Mrs. E. D. Yard, provided a very important part of the program. All the little ones were listened to with much interest.

Thirteen received diplomas of promotion, having completed the required work.

Those from the main school who took part did themselves much credit. Mrs. Geo. E. Adams was in general charge of the program. By the use of the blackboard the pastor taught some interesting and important lessons on the need and importance of keeping the heart clean and pure. God and Jesus Christ must be built into every life if that life is to be able to fulfill its mission and stand the strain and stress of life. Men and nations without God will fall.

Arrangements are being made for important services next Sunday.

When the best interests of both the heart and the pocketbook are stirred alike, fused together for mutual benefits, people pull together—and a "get-together" meeting is a good thing both for the community and its individual citizens.

CITY ATTORNEY'S OPINION

pal corporation under the provisions of the Vrooman act, and by such amendment the legislature has distinguished between a municipally-owned public utility and a privately owned public utility in that power is given the city council to create a lien against the property of private individuals benefited by the construction of municipally owned public utilities, for the construction of such public utilities. There is valid reason for such a distinction as the construction of such public utility by the municipality as a public improvement and when so constructed belongs to and is used by the public and not for private profit or gain. As to whether or not the board wishes to adopt the policy of installing the water mains and connections at the time of improving the streets and making the cost of such installation a part of the cost of improving the streets, is a matter for you and the superintendent of the public service department to decide. If you adopt such policy in many cases it will be necessary, where large trunk lines are to be installed, to assess the cost against the district fed or benefited by the installation of such trunk lines instead of the abutting owners, which plan of assessment is provided for in the Vrooman act.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Very truly yours,
W. E. EVANS,
City Attorney.

EAGLE ROCK

Children's Day exercises were held Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church. The program was a well arranged one.

Lloyd Terrell and Ernest Coonradt, who have spent some time in Eagle Rock, left for their home at Denair on Wednesday and making the trip by motorcycle, reached that place on Saturday. These young men have made many friends here who regret their leaving, especially Mr. Terrell, who has lived here for five years.

The "Passion Play or the Life of Christ," which was shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Dreamland, was well attended and all who saw the pictures expressed them as "simply grand."

Saturday was a busy day in Eagle Rock, for it was the day set aside for the purpose of voting on the bonds. The question was this: "Shall the city of Eagle Rock incur a bonded indebtedness of $30,000 for the improvement of Central avenue in said city from the southerly boundary of said city to the southerly line of Colorado boulevard, and the construction therein of a pavement of permanent and substantial type with all necessary gutters, culverts, drains and other appurtenances?" Out of 442 votes cast, 190 were for it and 252 against it.

Miss Olive Moe spent the week-end visiting relatives in Los Angeles.

This Tuesday evening the cabinet members of the Epworth League and the Tennis club members will hold business meetings at the home of Miss Alice Kolbe on Fairmont avenue.

Much has been said of late about the better advantages and improvements this city would have were it to be annexed to Los Angeles. Many of our citizens are strongly in favor of this.

Beginning with the Baccalaureate sermon Sunday afternoon by Dr. Fishburn in the alumni hall, senior week is being observed at Occidental college. Monday evening the class play, "Herod," was given. Class day was observed Tuesday with an assembly program. The class picture and class colors, with the class gift, were presented to the school. A very impressive procession took place, followed by the singing of the college hymn. Tuesday evening the president, John Willis Baer, held a reception for the seniors at Johnston hall. Wednesday at 10 a. m. open air commencement exercises were held. The alumni banquet took place in the evening.

Friends and acquaintances of Mme. Elsa Menasco were pained to learn of her sudden death last week. She was a former resident of this city and a 'cellist of great note. It will be remembered by many that she recently played at the new clubhouse opening and so greatly pleased her admirers. She leaves a husband, son and two daughters, besides several other relatives who deeply mourn her death.

The graduating class of the Eagle Rock school held a fine entertainment Friday evening at the clubhouse. The program consisted of two plays, "Cinderella" and "The Tinderbox," and a large appreciative audience greeted the players, who performed their parts well.

Rev. Knopf of Austin, Minn., has taken up the work here as pastor of the Congregational church and already has proved himself a very efficient speaker.

After Occidental college closes, Prof. E. E. Chandler will leave for his ranch in the Imperial valley to spend the summer there.

the improvement of Glendale avenue from First street to the connection with Verdugo road, it was agreed that the matter should be referred to the city engineer with instructions to prepare a plan for the improvements and also to take up the matter with the Salt Lake railway in order to get the improvements made.

J. N. McGillis stated that at the last meeting of the Merchants' association it had been agreed to ask for a postponement of two weeks in the proposed change in the license ordinance. It was discovered, he said, that many of the members had been absent when the matter was first considered and that of those absent many were against the proposed change. It would be favorable to some and detrimental to others and the merchants wanted the matter delayed until they had time to look into it.

C. W. Ingledue corroborated Mr. McGillis. The delay was granted.

City Attorney Evans asked that the council allot time at the next meeting for consideration of the budget for next year. It would be necessary to arrange a definite plan for the appropriation of money for expenses for fifteen months. This was agreed to.

The city attorney presented his opinion concerning the matter of laying water pipes and laterals in streets before the same are permanently improved. This opinion is published in another column.

It was resolved to instruct City Manager Watson to call a meeting of the people concerned in the matter of the wash drain from Sycamore canyon for the purpose of discussing the question.

The city manager was also instructed to prepare plans for dividing the city into ten precincts for voting purposes and to submit them at the next meeting.

City Manager Watson stated that the work of putting the streets in shape was progressing favorably and that in a short time they would have all of the worst streets in order and the holes filled up. At present they are working on Milford.

In connection with a request for permission for the erection of a gasoline filling pump on Brand boulevard on the sidewalk by the Studebaker garage, it was decided to ask the garage management to send in a written communication on the subject.

H. B. Lynch, manager of the public service department, stated that he had received a request from property owners on Brand boulevard between First street and the city limits for the installation of electric lights and standards there. He was instructed to get the property owners to draw up and file a proper petition to the council on the matter.

H. B. Lynch also reported that the work on the water system was progressing favorably. All the gaps were being filled in and the work while compelled to keep pace with the street work, was going on satisfactorily.

City Manager Watson read a communication from Mr. Hale of Verdugo park offering the use of the park to the city for a celebration of the Fourth of July.

After considerable favorable discussion, it was agreed that the trustees should co-operate with the other public bodies in the city—the Merchants' association, the Chamber of Commerce and the Municipal League—for the purpose of arranging a fitting celebration of the Fourth in Verdugo park.

A communication was read from the Tupper-Robinson company offering to donate to the city lots A and C in tract 1026 for park purposes. These lots are known as Piedmont park and is already laid out with trees. The offer also gives lot B of tract 1026 to the city for street purposes. The city engineer was instructed to prepare a deed for the same.

An ordinance for the laying out and opening of Seventh street over and across the private right-of-way of the Pacific Electric railway was read for the third time. A similar ordinance dealing with Chestnut street was read for the third time and both were approved and adopted.

The council then took up the matter of the communication from the Chamber of Commerce regarding the installation of drinking fountains in the city. Considerable discussion followed.

Mr. A. T. Cowan said that this was a matter of necessity. It seemed a pity that visitors should come to the city and should go away with the impression that matters concerning the physical comfort of the citizens and their friends were neglected. Such drinking fountains were a necessity; they were essential to the comfort and welfare of the whole city. Every modern city with any pretensions to progress had installed such fountains and no matter what might be said by way of objection, they should be a first consideration with the trustees. One should be installed at the junction of Broadway and Brand boulevard and another at the city hall.

It was agreed to refer the matter to the manager of the public service department with instructions to report on the best kind of drinking fountains and on their cost.
